EXHIBITION -- Connections

Thursday, February 5 – Opening Reception

5:30 pm – 7:30 pm

Jenkins Johnson Gallery, 464 Sutter Street, San Francisco

Gallery owner Karen Jenkins-Johnson and independent curator Lisa Henry set out to curate an exhibition to explore connections between artists who boldly speak on topics of race, ethnicity, identity and sex in America. CONNECTIONS presents a selection of artists who not only transcend aesthetic boundaries, but have created a powerful discourse around social condition, personal identity, and cultural heritage in America during a time of a historic political change. The exhibition will continue through March 28.
